ABSTRACT

Background: Normal users' voluntary behaviors (e.g., knowledge sharing) in virtual communities (VCs) has been well investigated; however, research on health professionals' voluntary behaviors in online health communities (OHCs) is limited.

Objective: This paper focuses on OHCs for mental health and aims to explore how intrinsic and extrinsic motivations influence mental health service providers' voluntary behaviors.

Methods: Based on motivation theory and prior studies, we incorporated technical competence as intrinsic motivation and online reputation and economic rewards as extrinsic motivations, and proposed five hypotheses. We crawled objective data from YiXinLi, a Chinese OHC for mental health, and tested the hypotheses based on the Poisson regression model. All hypotheses are supported.

Results: 1) Technical competence, online reputation, and economic rewards positively influence mental health service providers' voluntary behaviors; 2) the interaction effect between technical competence and online reputation negatively influences mental health service providers' voluntary behaviors; 3) the interaction effect between technical competence and economic rewards negatively influences mental health service providers' voluntary behaviors.

Conclusions: Both intrinsic motivations and extrinsic motivations positively influence mental health service providers' voluntary behaviors, and their interaction effects negatively influence mental health service providers' voluntary behaviors. This study first contributes to the literature on health professionals' voluntary behaviors in OHCs by verifying the positive effect of economic rewards. It then contributes to motivation theory by incorporating a situation where intrinsic motivations and extrinsic motivations could negatively interact.

Background: Online health care service has become an effective supplementary way for traditional medical treatment. The development of online health care services depends on sustained interaction between health care professionals (HCPs) and patients. Therefore, it is necessary to understand the demands and gains of health care stakeholders in HCP-patient online interaction and determine an agenda for future work.

Objective: This study aims to present a systematic review of the antecedents and consequences of HCP-patient online interaction. It seeks to reach a better understanding of why HCPs and patients are willing to interact with each other online and what the consequences of HCP-patient online interaction are for health care stakeholders. Based on this, we intend to identify the gaps in existing studies and make recommendations for future research.

Methods: In accordance with the PRISMA guidelines, a systematic retrieval was carried out from the electronic databases Web of Science, PubMed, and Scopus. The search results were confined to those papers published in English between January 1, 2000 and June 30, 2018. Selected studies were then evaluated for quality; studies that did not meet quality criteria were excluded from further analysis. Findings of the reviewed studies related to our research questions were extracted and synthesized through inductive thematic analysis.

Results: A total of 8440 records were found after the initial search, 28 papers of which were selected for analysis. Accessibility to HCPs, self-management, and unmet needs were the main triggers for patients to participate in online interaction. For HCPs, patient education, career needs, and self-promotion were the major reasons why they took the online approach. There were several aspects of the consequences of HCP-patient online interaction on health care stakeholders. Consequences for patients included patient empowerment, health promotion, and acquisition of uncertain answers. Consequences for HCPs included social and economic returns, lack of control over their role, and gaining more appointments. HCP-patient online interaction also improved the communication efficiency in offline settings and helped managers of online health care settings get a better understanding of patients' needs. Health care stakeholders have also encountered ethical and legal issues during online interaction.

Conclusions: Through a systematic review, we sought out the antecedents and consequences of HCP-patient online interaction to understand the triggers for HCPs and patients to participate and the consequences of participating. Potential future research topics are the influences on the chain of online interaction, specifications and principles of privacy design within online health care settings, and roles that sociodemographic and psychological characteristics play. Longitudinal studies and the adoption of text-mining method are worth encouraging. This paper is expected to contribute to the sustained progress of online health care settings.

■ 1. Introduction↵

【人口老化】The world's population is ageing, and every country in the world is experiencing growth in the number and proportion of older adults in the population (United Nations, 2017). Across studies of population health, due to the physical and psychological losses, age is nearly always as the most powerful predictor of the state of people's health and the prevailing risks of morbidity and mortality they face (Baltes et al., 2005). 【老年人获取和分享健康信息】Connecting with older adults is even more critical as, in general, older adults have more health concerns, and therefore they need more health information (Sheng & Simpson, 2013; Jin et al., 2017), which may be defined as information on a continuum between health education and health promotion (Rolinson, 1996). In everyday situations, in addition to acquiring health information to support health self-management (Xie, 2008), older adults also collect and share health information with others to satisfy the sense of meaningfulness in their old age, filling in the self-loss caused by withdrawal from social role (Baltes et al., 2005).↵

【社交媒体成为健康信息的重要来源】With features such as huge user base, easy access, and high levels of interactivity (Xiang & Stanley, 2017), social media has become a valuable source of health information and deeply changed how health information is disseminated and received in a networked environment. Hence, there is a large number of people who choose to use social media to make or perform decisions when encountering healthcare issues (Vollum, 2014). 【研究情境：微信】In particular,

1. Introduction↵

【信息共享的好处，突出信息共享的重要性】↵

Inter-agency information sharing, as its importance is increasingly recognized, has become a new goal of governments around the world (Yang & Maxwell, 2011). It can reduce duplicate data processing and collecting, improve decision-making ability and accountability of government projects, and leverage service efficiency and government responsiveness, then achieve precise governance (Bigdeli, Kamal, & De Cesare, 2013; Ramon Gil-Garcia, Chengalur-Smith, & Duchessi, 2007). ↵

【为什么要对信息共享的影响因素进行研究，以及为什么要区分水平维度和垂直维度】↵

Although inter-agency information sharing brings a lot of benefits, its achievement is a great challenge for government agencies. Inter-agency information sharing not only requires involving agencies to share information, but may also need them to reengineer and integrate business processes as necessary (Bigdeli et al., 2013; Lam, 2005; T. Pardo & Tayi, 2007). In addition, information privacy, cost, power and other things also should be concerned (Yang & Maxwell, 2011). In practical, most information sharing projects in government are difficult to launch. However, it's interesting that vertical inter-agency

Dear authors!

Thank you for submitting a revised version of your manuscript with the former title "What are the Causes and Consequences of Healthcare-Professional-Patient Online Interaction? A Systematic Analysis of Existing Studies", which was amended to "What are the Antecedents and Consequences of Healthcare-Professional-Patient Online Interaction? A Systematic Analysis of Existing Studies". I appreciate the changes made and, in my opinion, the quality of the manuscript has improved significantly. I have also looked through the other reviewer's comments and, from my point of view, you have addressed nearly all of the raised concerns in a satisfactory way.

The present revised manuscript is the result of a commendable effort of a very thorough revision round. I am really impressed by the extremely diligent manner with which you have addressed the raised concerns. I have rarely seen such a well-formulated and nicely structured and comprehensive authors' response letter before. To sum up, I think that the manuscript has really improved through the revision and it makes a nice contribution to literature.

At the same time, some more or less minor concerns are still to be addressed before the manuscript can be published. So, I hope that you will interpret my additional comments as constructive criticism and I would be pleased if you managed to tackle them properly in order to make your manuscript publishable soon.

A letter from the frustrated author of a journal paper

Editor's Note: It seems appropriate, in this issue of JSS containing the findings of our annual Top Scholars/Institutions study, to pay tribute to the persistent authors who make a journal like this, and a study like that, possible. In their honor, we dedicate the following humorous, anonymously-authored, letter!

Dear Sir, Madame, or Other:

Enclosed is our latest version of Ms. #1996-02-22-RRRRR, that is the re-re-re-revised revision of our paper. Choke on it. We have again rewritten the entire manuscript from start to finish. We even changed the g-d-running head! Hopefully, we have suffered enough now to satisfy even you and the bloodthirsty reviewers.

I shall skip the usual point-by-point description of every single change we made in response to the critiques. After all, it is fairly clear that your anonymous reviewers are less interested in the details of scientific procedure than in working out their personality problems and sexual frustrations by seeking some kind of demented glee in the sadistic and arbitrary exercise of tyrannical power over hapless authors like ourselves who happen to fall into their clutches. We do understand that, in view of the misanthropic psychopaths you have on your editorial board, you need to keep sending them papers, for if they were not reviewing manuscripts they would probably be out mugging little old ladies or clubbing baby seals to death. Still, from this batch of reviewers, C was clearly the most hostile, and we request that you not ask him to review this revision. Indeed, we have mailed letter bombs to four or five people we suspected of being reviewer C, so if you send the manuscript back to them, the review process could be unduly delayed.

Some of the reviewers' comments we could not do anything about. For example, if (as C suggested) several of my recent ancestors were indeed drawn from other species, it is too late to change that. Other suggestions were implemented, however, and the paper has been improved and benefited. Plus, you suggested that we shorten the manuscript by five pages, and we were able to accomplish this very effectively by altering the margins and printing the paper in a different font with a smaller typeface. We agree with you that the paper is much better this way.

One perplexing problem was dealing with suggestions 13–28 by reviewer B. As you may recall (that is, if you even bother reading the reviews before sending your decision letter), that reviewer listed 16 works that he/she felt we should cite in this paper. These were on a variety of different topics, none of which had any relevance to our work that we could see. Indeed, one was an essay on the Spanish–American war from a high school literary magazine. The only common thread was that all 16 were by the same author, presumably someone whom reviewer B greatly admires and feels should be more widely cited. To handle this, we have modified the Introduction and added, after the review of the relevant literature, a subsection entitled “Review of Irrelevant Literature” that discusses these articles and also duly addresses some of the more asinine suggestions from other reviewers.

We hope you will be pleased with this revision and will finally recognize how urgently deserving of publication this work is. If not, then you are an unscrupulous, depraved monster with no shred of human decency. You ought to be in a cage. May whatever heritage you come from be the butt of the next round of ethnic jokes. If you do accept it, however, we wish to thank you for your patience and wisdom throughout this process, and to express our appreciation for your scholarly insights. To repay you, we would be happy to review some manuscripts for you; please send us the next manuscript that any of these reviewers submits to this journal.

Assuming you accept this paper, we would also like to add a footnote acknowledging your help with this manuscript and to point out that we liked the paper much better the way we originally submitted it, but you held the editorial shotgun to our heads and forced us to chop, reshuffle, hedge, expand, shorten, and in general convert a meaty paper into stir-fried vegetables. We could not – or would not – have done it without your input.

在论文修改了 5 次之后

- 这是我们最最最最最新版的论文，我们要改吐了。整个手稿又被从头到尾修改了一遍，连running head也没放过。现在我已经受够了，希望这次能满足你们和那些魔性的审稿人。同时：
- 我不会逐一解答了，毕竟，比起科学进展的细节，您的匿名审稿人更喜欢折磨我们这些碰巧落入他们魔掌的作者，借此来发泄自己的病态个性和性挫败，他们简直是神经病，请您不停地向他们发稿件，因为他们一旦没有稿子审了，很可能会去抢劫小老太太或者虐待小海豹。

院士作者终于怼了

- 审稿人中，C显然是最敌对的，编辑不用把我们的论文发回给他了。实际上我们已经向4-5个可能是审稿人C的人的邮箱发了文字炸弹，因此如果您将稿件发给他们的话，审查很有可能会因为某些原因被推迟。
- 您建议我们将原稿缩短五页，我们可以通过更改边距、缩小字体来快速 (efficiently) 实现。
- 审稿人B建议我引用16篇文献，这16篇文献涉及主题很广，不幸得是没有一篇和我们的研究有关系，其中甚至有一篇发表在高中文学杂志上、主题是关于美国和西班牙战争的论文。这16篇文献的唯一共同点是来源为同一个作者。大概B非常钦佩这个人并且觉得这个人的论文应该被广泛引用吧。为次，我们专门在相关文献后面加了一小节内容-标题为“对无关文献的综述”。

“不共戴天”的审稿人

- 我希望你们能够在此次修改版本满意，并且认识到这项作品的出版是多么迫切。否则，你们就是没有丝毫人性、应该关在笼子里的怪物，我诅咒你们；当然，如果你们接受了它，我们感谢你们在此过程投入的耐心和智慧，并对你们的学术见解表示欣赏。作为报答，我们乐意给你们帮忙，因此请务必将这些审稿人下次投到贵刊的稿件发给我们。
（好强的怨念，报复一下？）
- 假设你们接受了这篇论文，我们会添加一个注脚，感谢你们对这个稿件的“帮助”，并且说明我们更喜欢一开始提交的论文，它比现在的修改版本好太多了——在编辑拿着霰弹枪对着我们的头的压力下，一篇有滋有味的文章被改成了干瘪的炒蔬菜 (a meaty paper into stir-fried vegetable)。
